Trillion Dollar Footprint

Essential Question

What is a digital footprint, and what does yours convey?

Lesson Overview

Students learn that they have a digital footprint, which can be searched, shared, and seen by a large, invisible audience. Students then learn that they can take some control over their digital footprint based on what they post online.

Students watch the video "The Digital Footprint" to learn how information online can easily get out of one's control. They then examine the blog posts, photos, and profiles of two fictional host applicants for a TV show called "Trillion Dollar Footprint" and decide which would make a more honest host who works well with others. A key message of the lesson is that although online information provides an incomplete picture of a person, it can still affect how others view that person.

Learning Objectives

Students will be able to ...

- learn that they have a digital footprint and that information from it can be searched, copied and passed on, and seen by a large, invisible audience, and that it can be persistent.
- recognize that people's online information can be helpful or harmful to their reputation and image.
- consider their own digital footprints and what they want those footprints to be like in the future.

Materials and Preparation

- Preview the video "The Digital Footprint," and prepare to show it to students.
- Copy the Choose a Host Student Handout, one for every four students.
- Review the Choose a Host Student Handout Teacher Version.
- Copy the My Digital Footprint Student Handout, one for every student.

introduction

Warm-up (10 minutes)

ASK: How many of you have ...

- sent a message or posted a comment online?
- created a profile on a social network site?
- used some sort of photo-sharing app?
- Googled your own name? Were there any results about you? (Allow a few students to provide examples of what they found.)

EXPLAIN that filling out a form, sending an email to a friend, posting a photo, and pretty much everything one does online – even the simple act of visiting a website or using a search engine – leaves a trail. This trail, called a digital footprint, is made of bits and pieces of information on one's computer and on other computers and servers around the world, which allow other people to learn about you.

teach 1

Play Video (10 minutes)

DEFINE the Key Vocabulary terms digital footprint and imagery.

SHOW students the "The Digital Footprint" video. Before starting the video, remind students to carefully observe the imagery in the video and to think about what the images might convey about privacy. Offer students an example of imagery (for example, the Trash Bin icon on their computer that serves as a "garbage can" for their files). After the video is over, briefly review the meaning of the following imagery in the video as it relates to digital footprints and online privacy.

- Lighthouse: Search engines and social network sites can reveal a lot about people. It's easy to discover information about people using the Internet.
- Copies and Whispering in Ear: Information online can be forwarded to many others, sometimes after having been altered first.
- Stadium/Jumbotron: Anything can be publicly broadcast online for all to see.
- Permanent Marker: Once information is online, it is very difficult to take it down because others can copy and distribute it.

DEFINE the Key Vocabulary terms persistent and invisible audience.

REVIEW with students the concept that all of the information about someone online makes up his or her digital footprint, and that this information can be searched, copied and passed on, and seen by a large, invisible audience, and that it can become persistent.

teach 2

Choose a Host (25 minutes)

ARRANGE students into groups of four and give each group one copy of the Choose a Host Student Handout. EXPLAIN to students that "Trillion Dollar Footprint" is a popular TV show that tours the country looking for teens to compete in a talent show. Tell them you are hiring them to be producers for the show. Explain that their job is to:

- · Look over online information of two fictional host applicants, Linda and Jason.
- Decide which applicant should be the host of the show based on who works better with others and is more honest.
- Role-play TV producers, giving a convincing pitch to the class about which candidate they chose and why.

HAVE students work together for 10 to 15 minutes to:

- READ the Choose a Host Student Handout directions.
- REVIEW the profiles for Linda and Jason.
- FILL OUT the feedback form.
- DECIDE on a candidate.

HAVE groups pitch for the candidate that they selected, using evidence from the profiles to support their decision. Refer to the Choose a Host Student Handout – Teacher Version for guidance.

ASK:

Do you think the show's host should be Linda or Jason? Why?

Do you think the candidate will be honest?

Do you think the candidate will work well with others?

When all groups have made their pitch, explain to students that neither Jason nor Linda got the host position because the executive producer had too many concerns about both regarding their ability to work well with others and be honest. They are going to keep looking for other candidates.

ENCOURAGE students to examine what assumptions they made about each candidate.

ASK:

What did you think about the comment under Linda's Instapic? Did it change your opinion of her? Responses will vary. However, we don't know if Vanilli92's accusation was actually true.

What was your impression of Jason after you found out that he lied about singing in a band, his relationship status, and where he was born?

Some students may read into these inconsistencies more deeply than others. Is he really a liar? Maybe Jason forgot to change his relationship status on MyBook? Maybe his friend Maggie was mistaken? Some may argue that their opinion of Jason has more to do with his college wrestling steroid scandal than these MyBook discrepancies.

REFLECT on the importance of examining our assumptions when viewing information online. Also encourage students to think about how a digital footprint can be somewhat out of your control if others post information about you that is untrue or damaging. Then point out how it can be somewhat in your control because you can make decisions about what to post about yourself or what to send to others.

REVIEW with students that the decision of the executive producers not to select Linda or Jason based solely on information found online might seem unfair, but that these types of judgments can be a reality. Tell students that others might make judgments about them based only on what is contained in their digital footprints. Encourage students to take an active role in shaping their digital footprints to the extent they are able. However, remind students that information is not always under their control.

closing

Wrap-up (5 minutes)

You can use these questions to assess your students' understanding of the lesson objectives. You may want to ask students to reflect in writing on one of the questions, using a journal or an online blog/wiki.

ASK:

Who helped to shape Linda's and Jason's digital footprints?

Linda and Jason did, people who commented, news sources.

Can you tell what a person is really like offline based on what you find online?

To some degree. It depends on the size of their digital footprint and how accurate the information is.

What are some other types of information that make up your digital footprint?

Sample responses:

- The photos that I share
- Sports teams listings about me
- My Internet browser history
- My posts and messages on social network sites (even the ones I think are private)

Directions

Today you're all producers for "Trillion Dollar Footprint," a popular TV show that tours the country looking for teens to compete in a nationwide talent show. You're looking for a new host for the show. Based on personal statements from several applicants, you have narrowed the candidates to two: Linda and Jason.

The executive producer has hired a private investigator (PI) to dig up whatever he or she can about the candidates online. The PI has created a profile of both of the final candidates with the most important online documents he could find. He has passed along these profiles to you.

Based on these profiles, the executive producer wants you to choose which candidate should host the show. You should be very careful how you choose. Your candidate will be seen by millions of teens, so you should make sure that she or he, in particular: 1) works well with others, and 2) is honest.

Step 1:

Working in groups, look carefully through the profiles of both candidates.

Step 2:

Highlight the information you think is most important, given that you are looking for someone who works well with others and is honest.

Step 3:

Fill out the Feedback Form on the last page of this handout and reach an agreement as a group about who should be the host.

Step 4:

Be prepared to present your selection to the rest of the class, along with specific supporting evidence.

Hey there, My name's Linda, I'm 21, and I'm a big fan of "Trillion Dollar Footprint." I watch the show every week (I can't believe you kicked off Kevin, btw), and my friends have been telling me for years that I should try to host, because, you see, I'm the best! In addition to being the sweetest girl you'll ever meet, I'm a talented cook and passionate about cooking (you should check out my food blog). I think it's important for the TDF host to have a talent so they can keep the audience entertained. In short, I'm funny, I'm cute and down to earth (see picture), and I'm going to blow your socks off as the new TDF host. Can't wait to hear from ya!

All the Best,

Linda Berlinner

Hi there TV people,

My name's Jason, I'm 23, born and raised in Boston, MA (Best! City! Ever!), and I was made to be host of Trillion Dollar Footprint. As host, I'd love to show off my voice and inspire kids with a talent of my own. When I'm not out on the town with my friends or with my wife, I'm singing with my band or at home hanging out with my cat, Furmonster. Beyond that, I spend a lot of time online watching MeTube videos and stalking people on MyBook (just kidding). So, in conclusion, pick me! I am clearly the best choice.

Sincerely,

Jason Kramer

BOSTON – Four members of the Hamford Bulldogs wrestling team have been suspended for the rest of the season and asked not to return the following year after an anonymous source disclosed information about steroid use, says Head Coach Kevin Casmin.

The four students involved, freshmen Jeremy Dunlevy and Isaac Smith, and sophomores Jason Kramer and Marc Camphor, have written an open letter to the coach, in which they apologize to the team for their "inexcusable actions, which have affected our teammates and our college." However, they go on to speak a "dire need for reform" about the vague rules regarding performance-enhancing drugs and dietary supplements.

Feedback Form

List pieces of evidence from the profiles that demonstrate whether or not each candidate works well with others and is honest.

| | Linda Berlinner | Jason Kramer |
|-----------------------------------|---|--|
| Works well with others | Linda says she teaches cooking classes to high school students. | Jason is (or was) in a band. The posts and comments on his MyBook and Twister profiles make him seem outgoing and well-liked. |
| Does not work well with others | Linda doesn't seem too humble in her personal statement for Trillion Dollar Footprint. | Jason's suspsension from his college wrestling team calls into question his integrity and good sporstmanship. |
| Is honest | Linda's blog and Instapic account demonstrate that she's truly passionate about food and cooking. | Jason didn't lie about everything in his personal statement. For example, he does seem to live in Boston, and he does have a cat named Furmonster. |
| Is dishonest | Linda may have lied about being a talented cook. Vanilli92's comment makes it seem like Linda did not actually cook the dish in her Instapic. | Jason's personal statement doesn't match his MyBook profile. Is he actually married? Was he born in Malibu? Does he still sing for a band? Also, his college wrestling team's steroid scandal seems like a red flag. |

Final Choice: ___

Main Reasons for Choice:

- 1. Students answers' will vary. After the activity is over, explain to students that neither Jason nor Linda got the host position because the executive producer had
- 2. too many concerns about both regarding their ability to work well with others and be honest.
